Career Services welcomes the expert panel of Dr. Cathleen Dunn, Dr. Courtney Wiest and Dr. Nancy Wood. The talented trio will discuss the Saint Leo University graduate programs they lead and help you understand the variety of coursework, certifications and career opportunities available in these related fields. Join us to explore the social sciences and gain valuable insight to paving your own career path!

Masters in Psychology: Dr. Dunn is the director of the master of science in psychology program and has extensive experience teaching psychology and business management. Her doctoral focus was industrial/organizational psychology, and she has worked in both government and private sector roles.

Masters in Social Work: Dr. Wiest has been at Saint Leo University for 10 years and now serves as the director of the master of social work program. In addition to administrative leadership, Dr. Wiest's current research interests include creating a sense of community in an online environment.

Masters in Human Services Administration: Dr. Wood is the director of the graduate human services administration program. She has extensive experience in corporate human resource management, leadership, marketing, IT and project management; as well as 10 years' experience in human services (non-profit) management, advocacy, and grantsmanship.
